

JOHNSTONE STRAIT EXPEDITION

GUEST HANDBOOK

SPIRIT OF THE WEST
ADVENTURES

TOUR OVERVIEW

Six days in nature's finest

The Johnstone Strait is known as the best place to whale watch in Canada, and the nearby Broughton Archipelago is a kayaker's dream: tiny islets, rich intertidal life and remote hidden campsites combine to make for glorious days of paddling. On this 6 day expedition, you'll journey through both areas on a one-way trip between Simoom Sound and Telegraph Cove.

Where you'll go

Make intrepid crossings across the Johnstone Strait and Blackfish Sound. Weave through the tiny islets of the Broughton Archipelago. Discover passageways, explore shorelines and search for sea creatures. You'll paddle in new areas everyday, move to a new campsite every night and spend hours amazed by the magic of the natural world.

Although there is a start and end point, there is no set route for this expedition. Your experienced guides will plan a winding route through the area, stopping at their favourite campsites and revealing all the secret spots and passageways that they've previously discovered. No two expeditions are the same.

Weather & wildlife

The Broughtons are a cool haven to escape to during the heat of the summer. Fresh breezes blow in from the open ocean and cold waters upwell from the depths of the Pacific. Typical daytime temperatures in July and August sit at 19°C, while overnight they fall to around 10°C. These cooler conditions create the perfect environment for wildlife to thrive. The cold nutrient-rich waters attract fish, and the fish are what draw whales, eagles, bears and dolphins to the area.

Consistent precipitation throughout the year nourishes the land and ancient forests that surround this incredible place. While some long dry spells can be expected, rainfall is not uncommon in the summer months, so don't forget to pack your rain jacket!

Who this trip is for

The Johnstone Strait Expedition is an amazing journey for experienced kayakers and active folks with a sense of adventure. While no previous paddling experience is required, we do recommend that you have some days of wilderness camping and backcountry travel under your belt. EXAMPLE ITINERARY

This example itinerary is flexible and may be adapted based on weather conditions and group ability. There is no set route for this tour, other than starting and ending in Telegraph Cove. You can expect to move camp every day.

DAY 1

Arrive at Telegraph Cove Marine & RV Park* around 11am. Find a parking spot and pay for parking ($8 per day) in the Marina office. Meet your guides at the boat ramp at 11:30am. They'll pass out your drybags and demonstrate how to pack your gear for the expedition.

If you're on a northbound expedition, you'll load up the kayaks, run through a safety briefing and grab a quick lunch before pushing off into the Johnstone Strait.

If you're on a southbound expedition, you'll jump aboard Bruce's water taxi and enjoy a scenic 2 hour journey up to Paddler's Inn in Simoom Sound. Upon arrival, your guides will lead a kayak orientation and if there's enough time, get you out on the water for an intro paddle.

Regardless of which direction you're heading, your guides will serve up some delicious appetizers and a hearty dinner to make sure you're fed and ready for a big day on the water tomorrow.

Spend the evening relaxing, reading or chatting with new friends as you watch the sun dip below the horizon.

*We recommend arriving 20-30 minutes before your scheduled meeting time, to allow for parking and unloading your gear.

DAYS 2-5

Pack down camp and kickstart the day with some hot coffee and a tasty breakfast. Carry the boats down to the water, pack everything away and push off on a new journey. A picnic lunch will be prepared en-route and your guides will be on hand to tell you all about the amazing intertidal and marine life you might see on the way to your next campsite.

At the end of the day, take a refreshing dip in the ocean, or settle in for the night with a good book and a mug of tea.

DAY 6

Northbound folks will wake up in a comfy bed at the Paddler's Inn, having already completed your journey. You'll spend an hour taking in the delights of Simoom Sound, before loading your gear onto the water taxi and heading back to Telegraph Cove.

Southbound folks have one last push to make. Wake up early to enjoy the final few hours of peace. Gently paddle back along the Vancouver Island shoreline and finish your journey in Telegraph Cove.

After a quick lunch and some fond farewells, you'll be jumping in your vehicle at around 1pm, to reluctantly head back home.

WHAT TO EXPECT

YOUR JOURNEY: This is a one-way expedition travelling either northwards or southwards between Paddler's Inn (Simoom Sound) and Telegraph Cove.

SELF-SUPPORTED: Your group will be carrying everything you need in your kayaks. There is no support crew, stash points or supply drops. For this reason, it is important to pack well and pack light.

PART OF A TEAM: Our expeditions require everyone to work together as a team. You will be needed to help keep camp tidy, and to assist with loading, carrying and unloading kayaks at the beginning and end of every day.

KAYAKING: Each day on the water, you can expect to be paddling for 5-6 hours and cover 8-10 nautical miles per day. You may encounter wind, swell, currents, crossings and technical landings.

KAYAKS: A fleet of good quality fibreglass kayaks will join your expedition. Typically, your group will have at least 2 double kayaks and the rest singles. You can expect to rotate through them and to paddle different boats throughout your trip.

CAMPsites: There are many camping areas along your route. Most sites around Telegraph Cove are well established, with pit toilets and tent platforms. These sites can be popular in the peak of summer, but your guides will use their insider knowledge to find the best and quietest spots. Camping areas at the north end of the Broughton Archipelago are wilderness sites with fewer or no facilities. Your guides will carry a portable toilet which will be placed in a private nook at each of these backcountry sites. We practice LEAVE NO TRACE camping and encourage you to refresh yourself on the seven principles before arrival.

HYGIENE: Handwashing stations will be set up at each lunch spot and camp site. Refreshing saltwater ocean swims can be used for bathing. Public showers are available in Telegraph Cove.

SAFETY: Risk assessment and safety protocols are a big part of wilderness travel. Listen to the safety briefings given by your guides and FOLLOW THE PRECAUTIONS put in place to keep everyone safe.

REMOTE ACCESS: Cell service is patchy and you will not have access to electricity or charging stations throughout your trip. Please bring extra batteries or battery packs for phones and cameras.

We need to know as soon as possible about any dietary requirements we should consider when planning your trip menu. If you have food allergies or restrictions, we will do our best to accommodate your needs. However, people with severe food allergies may need to supply some or all of their own food as we can't entirely mitigate the risk of cross-contamination. Additionally, some specific needs can only be met if we charge you a supplemental menu fee to cover our increased costs. Please note we are not a peanut- or nut-free facility.

Note: Pending a detailed discussion about a guest's specific dietary requirements, Spirit of the West Adventures may determine that a person with severe allergies and/or dietary restrictions is not suitable for our adventures due to the constraints of preparing food for groups of people in a wilderness setting.
